FORGED NOTES IN THE DEFUNCT

Central City Bank Are Discovered.

PRESIDENT GREGORY IN JAIL

At Greenville and Declines
To Arrange Bond—No
Securities Seen.

A CHANGE OF SENTIMENT NOW

Greenville, Ky., Feb. 12.—Eli E. Gregory, president of the Central City Deposit Bank, of Central City, Ky., which was ordered closed recently because of certain irregularities in its affairs, surrendered to the authorities at Greenville to-day. A warrant had been issued for his arrest at the instance of the State Banking Commissioner last night on the charge of making a false statement to the banking department.

It was proposed to take him before the court and arrange for bond, but Mr. Gregory refused to permit this action and is in jail.

He will probably remain in jail until the next term of the Muhlenberg Circuit Court, which convenes April 19.

Sensations in the Central City bank failure came thick and fast to-day.

It developed that two notes bearing the alleged signature of Mayor C. W. Wells, of Central City, were forgeries. One was for $3,750, the other for $750.

It is declared that there is other forged paper in the bank, the whole amounting to $10,000 or more.

It also developed that the Central City school fund, amounting to $6,000, is all gone. Eli Gregory was the treasurer of the school fund. He had given no bond.

It is known that one depositary placed $1,031 in the bank on Friday preceding the day of the closing of the bank. It is also said that another deposit of at least $1,500 was made on the same day. When the bank closed there was between $500 and $800 on hand.

The indebtedness of Gregory and his family to the bank it now seems will amount to $50,000, with no securities.

These revelations made a complete reversal in public sentiment, which until the last forty-eight hours has been strongly with Eli Gregory.

The Central City Argus, edited by Cleburne Gregory, the banker's brother, appeared to-day, saying:

"As soon as the bank got in trouble president Gregory and the members of his family began efforts to raise money to take care of the depositors. Mrs. Eli Gregory went to Cincinnati and arranged to borrow $30,000, which amount was sent by Benjamin Strader, a Cincinnati real estate man, to Judge W. P. Sandige, attorney for E. E. Gregory. Mrs. Gregory went on to Pittsburg, where she is now attempting to raise an additional sum.

"Eli Gregory immediately made a deed of assignment of everything he had in the world, real and personal, to Attorney Cam Howard, of Greenville, for the benefit of the bank.

"When the check for the $30,000 from Cincinnati was sent out, Judge Sandige was asked to O. K. the securities offered, which included president Gregory's stock in the Central City Deposit bank. As the bank is closed this stock cannot be considered as collateral, so arrangements must be made to either reduce the loan or put up other security.

"All of these activities on the part of relatives were based on the assumption that there would be no prosecution as the result of the bank's failure, President Gregory having voluntarily assumed all responsibility for the affairs of the bank and exonerated everyone else from anything the banking commissioner might consider irregular. But Commissioner Smith, who spent three days here investigating affairs, felt that duty compelled him to put the matter into the courts. He therefore went to Greenville Wednesday afternoon and swore out a warrant for President Gregory, charging him with making a false statement to the Banking Department."

The holdings of stock in the Central City Deposit bank by Eli Gregory and his family connections amounted to about $25,000, but as this stock is entirely worthless the Cincinnati aid, if based upon this stock at all, could not have been made available. It is believed that Eli Gregory's assets, including his residence, newspaper plant and laundry, will not be over $12,000, but it is thought he may be able to raise enough to pay off the forged paper and the $6,000 school fund.

The other chief stockholders in the bank are John T. May, E. B. Miller, Dr. S. P. Taylor and Godman Deane, who hold from $1,000 to $2,000 of the stock each, and they are absolutely solvent, therefore they will eventually have to pay to the creditors of the bank the full amount of their stock holdings under the double liability law. There are several other stockholders in small amounts.

Banking Commissioner Smith returned to Frankfort this afternoon, leaving H. H. Holeman in charge of the defunct bank.

Central City and the county for several days were very quiet about this bank failure, but now there is much excitement and feeling. Gregory made no effort to get bail, and refused a guard that was offered, insisting on going to jail.

Another Forged Note.

Central City, Ky., Feb. 15.—Another forgery of a note for $3,500 purporting to be signed by Thos. Cundiff, a farmer, was developed in the Central City Deposit Bank investigation to-day.

Mr. Cundiff, learning that such a note was held by the bank, came in to examine it, and immediately repudiated it.

So much of the bank's paper has been proved to be forged or having worthless securities, that there will not be enough assets to turn over to another bank or to warrant a deputy banking commissioner to give his time to winding up the affairs of the Gregory bank, and it is probable that the whole matter will soon be turned over to some attorney to work out what he can for the depositors, who can now hope for but little.

Eli Gregory was taken before the County Judge at Greenville to-day for examining trial, but the court set the case over until April 19, when Circuit Court will be in session and the grand jury will act upon it.

ALLOWS PRISONER TO VISIT DYING MOTHER

Berlin, Feb. 15.—Raoul Davidot, a French prisoner of war, returned to Germany to-day from a visit to his home in France, where he was permitted to go by order of Emperor William to see his dying mother.

The Frenchman wrote direct to the Emperor his request to be allowed to visit his mother, pledging his word of honor to return by March 1. The Emperor immediately granted the request and Davidot made the trip to France by way of Switzerland.

After the death of his mother he returned to the detention camp in Germany.

TENNESSEE MOB BURNS ANOTHER NEGRO CHURCH

Hopkinsville, Ky., Feb. 13.—Information reached Hopkinsville by telephone to-night of another raid by "coon hunters" Wednesday midnight in Stewart county, Tennessee, near Big Rock. A large body of men, masked and armed, rode into a negro settlement and set fire to Red Top church. It was the second colored church burned in the neighborhood recently. Several negroes were dragged from their homes and whipped. Two or three were so badly maltreated that they are in the care of physicians. All the negroes were warned to leave the community.

Last Cash Distribution.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 11.—State Treasurer Thomas S. Rhea to-day checked out to the county and city schools of the State $562,682.73, the last distribution of the State school fund for this scholastic year. The county schools drew $455,412.51 and the city schools $104,170.22.

Warren County.

A NOTE IS LEFT DECLARING

County Judge Denhardt Will Be Killed and Bowling
Green Destroyed.

MATTERS GETTING DESPERATE

Bowling Green, Ky., Feb. 12.—Following the threatening note left for Judge Denhardt recently by unknown persons, the foot bridge over Barren river was destroyed by fire by incendiaries early this morning, and another note of warning was left threatening to kill County Judge Denhardt and to blow up the railroad bridge and every bridge in the county, the normal school, and the waterworks and to set fire to Bowling Green, if efforts to prosecute Burns and Stem, the two men under arrest for robbing J. Emmett Skaggs, the Grayson county student at a business college here, are not relaxed.

The fire which destroyed the bridge broke out about 1:30 o'clock this morning, and when the firemen reached the scene they discovered several casks of coal oil had been ignited in the middle of the structure. The flames had gained such headway that efforts to extinguish them were in vain, and four of the firemen barely escaped from the bridge before it fell into the river.

Investigation revealed the following note printed by hand and attached to the entrance to the bridge on the Bowling Green side:

"Blackhand, that means justus. We are tired of unjust Judge Denhardt running the city and will blow up every bridge in the county and every man school. Let the city tend to its business and the county tend to its business. If something ain't done we will blow up the waterworks and set the town on fire and Bose Hammons must let the city business alone. If not we will blow up the railroad. We no Denhardt. We can any good of him. We hate to kill him but we will."

The burning of the bridge and the threats have caused the greatest excitement in Bowling Green, and every effort is being made to discover the writers of the note and perpetrators of the crime.

When the first note was received by Judge Denhardt several days ago it was generally considered that the affair was a joke and no real attention was paid to it; but the recent developments have shown the officials that they have a desperate gang of criminals to deal with and the situation is regarded as serious.

Judge Denhardt called a court of inquiry this morning to make a thorough investigation, and a number of members of a gang of hoodlums who infest the town have been called to tell what they know.

The "Hammons" referred to in the note is the L. & N. railroad detective here, who has been very active in cleaning up the gang of roughs who have been charged with a number of depredations in this vicinity recently.

The town is thoroughly aroused and an indignation meeting has been called, but it is probable it may be called off until the officials have exhausted every means in their power to round up the band.

Several casks in which whiskey had been shipped to Bowling Green by a New Albany firm, and which contained the coal oil used in burning the bridge, were the only clues that have been discovered, and efforts are being made to discover to whom these casks were consigned.

The officials this morning refused to give the names of the firms on the casks until further investigation has been made.

Double Wedding.

A double wedding was solemnized at the Occidental hotel parlor last Monday afternoon, Rev. J. H. Dight officiating. The parties were O. W. Wallace, a teacher of Ohio county, Ky., and Miss Annie Eversly, of same county, and John Lindley and Irene Davis, music teacher, both of Ohio county, Ky.—[Rockport (Ind.) Democrat.]

CALLED TO DOOR AND SHOT DEAD

But Bullets Were Intend ed For Another.

AN ESTILL COUNTY TRAGEDY

A Fearful State Of Affairs
Exists and People Seem Afraid To Talk.

SAY ASSASSINS ARE BACKED

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 13.—A band of ten men last night rode up to the door of Houston Underwood, at Irvine, and riddled his body with bullets, after calling him to his door.

Telephone messages from Irvine state that the police officials believe that the killing of Underwood was a mistake on the part of the band, who intended their shots for another man, a visitor at the Underwood home at the time.

Capt. V. G. Mullikin returned to-night from Irvine, and gave some interesting facts about the killing of Underwood in that city and the general conditions that prevail there. At the time of the tragedy Capt. Mullikin and his bloodhounds were on Millers creek, five miles from Irvine, in Estill county, tracing some meat thieves who had been operating there. No effort was made to start the dogs on the trail of the murderers, as the spot where the crime was committed had been trapped and re-trapped by hundreds of people. There had been no effort to keep the place clear so a trail could be had.

"The people seem very much afraid to talk about the matter," said Capt. Mullikin to-night. "It is the general opinion that the assassination of Underwood came about as a result of the recent dynamiting of the court house and other acts of lawlessness there. It was hard to find any one who would talk about the matter, and people who had seen the men leave after the shooting could hardly be induced to tell which way they ran after the shots were fired."

"Green Davidson was the man for whom they were laying." The assassins came to the house and called for him, but he suspected trouble and warned Underwood, with whom he was stopping, not to go to the door. But Underwood said he would see what was wanted. The house was the second visit that night in search of Davidson, who is a bachelor, and who had just recovered from the effects of a broken leg.

"Three persons under suspicion are believed to be the same men who dynamited the court house. Davidson is said to have recognized the three men's voices when they called for him to come out. These men were still in Irvine to-day and their arrest may follow soon."

"A man who formerly wielded much influence in Irvine is said to be backing the men in their lawlessness."

"An effort was also made Friday night to assassinate the Town Marshal, which failed for some reason."

"A prominent physician of the town said that the 'reign of terror' had been responsible for many people leaving the city, and that property would hardly bring more than fifty per cent of its value six months ago."

Three Men Arrested.

Irvine, Ky., Feb. 14.—Three men, who are said to have been in the party of six or seven who participated in the shooting here Friday night which caused the death of Houston Underwood, have been arrested on warrants charging murder, sworn to by Green Davidson and Mrs. Houston Underwood. They are being held under the care of officers for the preliminary hearing.

The three men are T. Q. Wallace, former postmaster here and a prominent merchant, J. H. Hinds and Frank Chaney.

Unless additional facts are brought out at the hearing it is not thought that any additional arrests will be made now, as neither Davidson nor Mrs. Houston Underwood could furnish any clue as to the rest of the party.

According to the defendants threats of death against Wallace made by Davidson are said to have led to the shooting. Davidson and Mrs. Underwood, however, allege that information as to whiskey selling given by Davidson against Hinds and Chaney was the motive for the visit of the gang.

The three men being held are staying at the Riverview Hotel. Wallace is a married man and prominently connected throughout the State. He is a brother of James A. Wallace, of Irvine, and C. C. Wallace, a prominent attorney of Richmond. Hinds is married and Chaney unmarried.

Statements made since the shooting to County Attorney J. L. Carpenter prove conclusively that Underwood was not the man that the men in the attacking party were after.

AMERICANS ANNOYED ON STREETS OF BERLIN

Berlin, via London, Feb. 13.—An appeal to its readers not to allow hatred of Great Britain to lead them to insult English-speaking persons in the streets is printed by the Lokal Anzeiger. The paper says it may be assumed in the great majority of such cases that the speakers are Americans. It reminds its readers that diplomatic representatives of the United States have assumed the protection of Germans in lands with which that country is at war.

Americans in Germany are entitled to be treated as guests, and the laws of hospitality must be violated under no conditions, the Lokal Anzeiger asserts. In closing it says:

"Americans living here happily whole people responsible for the excesses of individuals."

Ambassador James W. Gerard recently was annoyed while attending a theater, and similar experiences on the part of other Americans have occurred with increasing frequency in the past few days.

FARMER BUYS COFFIN—GOES ON MURDER RAID

Asheville, N. C., Feb. 13.—After he had returned from Johnson City, Tenn., where he purchased a coffin and made other preparations for death, George McAlister, a prosperous farmer living at Burnsville, N. C., near here, shot and fatally wounded Fred Ramsey, proprietor of the Ramsey Hotel at Burnsville, and then killed himself.

Notes found in the pocket of the dead man indicated that he intended to kill two other men, one of whom was out of town at the time he called, and the other absent from his office. McAlister and Ramsey are said to have quarreled a few days ago over domestic affairs.

McAlister left immediately for Johnson City, Tenn., where he bought his coffin and arranged his accounts so that his widow would have no trouble in collecting them.

A TILT WITH TEACHER—STUDENTS WALK OUT

Kokomo, Ind., Feb. 12.—Because the principal of the Windfall High School, ten miles from here, threatened to expel Clifford Loser, a student, when he refused to "squeal" on his sweetheart, Miss O'Neal Baker, all the students, 125 in number, walked out this afternoon. They paraded through the streets, demanding that their fellow student be reinstated.

Members of the faculty notified the town marshal and the students were driven off the school property.

The students say that Miss Baker wrote a note to Loser. It fell into the teacher's hands. Loser admitted knowing who wrote it, but refused to divulge the name.

The students spent the afternoon marching through the town, singing songs and giving high school yells.

SHIP RATES ON TOBACCO ALMOST PROHIBITIVE

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 12.—The question of securing ships to transport American tobacco abroad was discussed to-day at a meeting here of the Planters' Protective Association of Tennessee and Kentucky. It was stated that the present rate on tobacco was virtually prohibitory, having grown from 32 cents the hundred pounds to $3.50, and that shipping facilities were almost unobtainable at any price.

UNCLE SAM GIVES DRASTIC WARNING

To the Powers Of Great Britain and Germany.

WILL HOLD THEM RESPONSIBLE

For Any Damage To Our Vessels Or the Loss Of American Lives.

COPIES GIVEN TO DIPLOMATS

Washington, Feb. 13.—Publication by the State Department of the texts of the notes sent to Great Britain and Germany, respectively, reveal that both countries had been warned in most emphatic terms against menacing the vessels or lives of American citizens traversing the recently proclaimed sea zones of war.

Germany was advised that the United States "would be constrained to hold the Imperial Government to a strict accountability" for such acts of its naval authorities as might result in the destruction of American vessels or the loss of American lives and that if "such a deplorable situation should arise," the American Government would "take any steps it might be necessary to take to safeguard American lives and property."

To Great Britain the United States pointed out "the measure of responsibility" which would seem to be imposed on the British Government "for the loss of American vessels and lives in case of an attack by German naval force" if England sanctioned the general misuse of the American flag by British vessels, and thereby cast doubt upon the valid character of neutral ensigns.

The two communications were presented respectively to the British Government by Ambassador Page and the German Foreign Office by Ambassador Gerard. They were prepared by Counselor Robert Lansing and revised by President Wilson and Secretary Bryan after consultation with the entire Cabinet.

The British, Spanish and Brazilian Ambassadors, who happened to call at the State Department, were given copies of the notes, as were the Ministers of Sweden, Norway and Denmark, who especially requested it. The documents created something of a sensation among the diplomats generally because of what some regarded as their drastic implications. High officials of the American Government pointed out informally that it had been deemed advisable to speak in unmistakable terms now, rather than to await the alarming effect upon American public opinion which might ensue from the sinking of a vessel with scores of American citizens. The notes, officials were confident, would serve as a preventive of the critical possibilities discussed in them.

Diplomats examined with great interest the language of the communications and some of them construed the note to Germany as a warning that the loss of American lives by sinking even a belligerent merchant ship would be covered by the representations of the American Government because of the insistence that all merchant ships must be visited and searched and passengers taken off before ships can be sunk.

Better Be Glad.

With commerce and credits disorganized, over half the civilized world practically cut off from us, industries paralyzed by the European war and the ocean shipping interests raising their freight rates from 300 to 900 per cent., the United States is in the throes of a confusing financial situation, and there is actual want all over the land. Yet, it ill becomes a people at peace in times like these, with food enough and clothing enough and housing enough to go around, to complain of conditions. The actual necessities are not denied anyone over here. In Europe millions are literally starving and freezing. We ought to thank God we are so well off.—[Frankfort State Journal.]

BUT ARE HOPING EARNESTLY

For End Of Strife—Peace Proposal Sought By Anti-War Party.

A CONVENTION BY THE ALLIES

Berlin, via London, Feb. 12.—German Socialists, while not desirous of presenting any partisan issues or of taking any other action during the present crisis which might militate against the harmonious co-operation of all parties, have surrendered none of their views. This is shown by the attitude of the Socialist members of the Prussian Diet, which began a session yesterday. Herr Hirsch, a Socialist delegate, read on behalf of his party a declaration, which is in part as follows:

"The Social-Democratic party maintains its opposition, based on principle, to the former government policy, which policy has remained in all material things unchanged. The party, however, refrains in this critical time from introducing discussions of a polemic nature into the consideration of the budget of its first reading."

Herr Hirsch added that his party later would call attention to complaints concerning the provisions for soldiers and for dependents, the food supply for the nation and restrictions on the free expression of thought. He could not permit the occasion to pass, he continued, without giving expression to the demand of his party that the government, in consequence of the situation brought about by the war, should concede certain measures desired by the great mass of the people. These included the demand that the police cease their battle against the labor movement in general, and in particular against the Social-Democrats, and other Socialist organizations.

Herr Hirsch said that his party was opposed to political oppression, but that the basis of all political reforms must be their equal application to all minorities, as in the case of the Danes and Poles.

His party had hoped, Herr Hirsch continued, that the government would fulfill its duty by granting uniform suffrage with the secret ballot, at the session of October 20, last. He mentioned the desire of the Social-Democrats for an honorable peace, and concluded:

"We know that this war is desired by the people in none of the belligerent lands; that its end is everywhere longed for by the people. We cherish the confidence that the voices demanding peace will grow more numerous in all belligerent hands; will make themselves heard in influential quarters and that under the influence of this desire for peace, especially of the laboring classes of all lands, an assured peace may come speedily, to the well being of the German people and of all humanity."

Herr von Heydebrand replied to Herr Hirsch on behalf of the non-Socialist parties. He declared that the present moment was not a suitable one for advancing special wishes or complaints. The situation was one which demanded that the entire Prussian people show itself united, as its soldiers on the battlefield were united.

Herr Liebknecht interjected: "You have no right to speak in the name of the German people."

This remark brought forth cries of protest. Herr Heydebrand continued his reply with an exhortation to the delegates to work together and make any sacrifices necessary for victory.

Peace Party Strong.

Paris, Feb. 12.—Certain French newspapers reprint, with the consent of the government censors, an article published in the Democrite de Belemont, stating that previous to the battle of the Marne a party existed in France which was ready to sign a peace treaty, at the same time ceding to Germany the towns of Briey and Nancy, French Lorraine, the island of Madagascar and the protectorate of Morocco, as well as paying an indemnity. The article continues:

"General Joffre, the French commander-in-chief, President Raymond Poincare and most of the cabinet ministers were opposed to the plan, but the situation became so tense as to necessitate the resignation of Adolphe Messimy as Minister of War and the formation of a Ministry of National Defense.

"After the battle of the Marne Germany proposed peace through ex-Premier Joseph Callaux, offering to give up the provinces of Alsace and Lorraine, with the exception of Strassburg, receiving in exchange a small zone on the North Sea coast extending from Calais to Dunkirk. France, in addition, was to acknowledge the annexation of Belgium by Germany.

"The answer to this proposal was the signing of a convention by the allies to make no separate peace. After this M. Callaux was appointed to an important position in the pay corps, but later was relieved of this post and sent on a mission to Brazil."

ADVANCE IN WHEAT HAS MADE MANY FORTUNES

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 12.—In the six months since the war began the price of wheat has about doubled on the Chicago Board of Trade. The low point for the cash grain last summer was around 87 cents. In the last week the price has wavered between $1.55 and $1.70. The best-informed men at the Board of Trade say the American farmer has reaped the richest profit.

James A. Patten says he has had no wheat since the price left $1.45. But he had a lot before it got there, and his winnings have been established at from $250,000 to $1,000,000.

J. Ogden Armour has been a bull on wheat since the war began. Estimates of his profits are futile, but when he trades it is usually on the very large scale his enormous wealth makes possible.

C. W. Partridge, brother of the celebrated "Ed," is reported to have cleaned up $250,000 before wheat reached $1.50.

Around the board are many men who have won from $50,000 to $150,000, and numerous small fry are reported to have picked up from $20,000 to $50,000. The advance has brought the usual stories of "pikers" running "shoestrings" up to $25,000.

The Wall Street crowd got into the market early, and, being closer to the export buyers than Chicago, have been consistently bullish. Foreign speculators are believed to have made large winnings also.

English Imitation Of American Language Quite Funny, Don't You Know?

FROM A NEUTRAL STANDPOINT

(Richard Henry Little in Chicago Herald.)

It is the purpose of this column to be strictly neutral! Since the beginning of the war we have strenuously refused to eat German frankfurter mit sauerkraut, English plum pudding, French pate de foie gras or Russian caviare!

It is with the greatest reluctance that we continue to write the English language or speak to Mr. R. T. Fox because he resides on Goethe street. However, our conscience is partially at rest regarding Mr. Fox of Goethe street, because in the American tongue the name is not given its German pronunciation, but is called Goeazy street.

However, we refuse to dance the German, and we will not ride on the Illinois Central because it runs to Paris, Illinois, and we no longer have Sunday night suppers with S. Duffy because he is addicted to Russian the can.

We are neutral.

But we wish to say just a word to our German cousins regarding the use by British ships of the American flag. People who are fond of English mustard will probably charge us with a breach of neutrality, but we feel that if the English have a right to disguise their ships with the American flag we can give our German cousins a word or two of sage advice.

We wish to tell the Germans how they can be sure that a ship flying the American flag is American and not English. It is really very simple! And it is important for the Germans to know.

In the first place, after the Germans have commanded a ship flying the American flag to lay to, or possibly to lay three or four, they will send an officer and a boat's crew to inspect said vessel.

Now, if the ship is an English ship seeking to escape capture by flying the American flag, the captain of the ship will lean over the taffrail, as the German officer comes alongside and call out:

"Say, I guess you fellows hez bit off more'n you kin chew and I guess you'd better get eout!"

The English captain will talk like that because he is trying to keep up the deception that his ship is American, for that is the English notion of how Americans talk.

The German officer will ask for the ship's papers and the English captain, still thinking he is acting as well as John Drew or Eva Tangany, will stroke the false whiskers on his chin, spit tobacco juice on the ocean and say:

"Wall, I guess these yere folks guess that you're wrong, stranger, and I guess you'd better mosey before I git all het up."

That is the way an Englishman would attempt to give a correct impersonation of an American.

We wish to inform the Germans to be on their guard and not let the English deceive them in this way.

The American language is radically different from the English language. In England they get their ideas of our spoken speech from the old books of Bret Harte and James Fenimore Cooper. Bret Harte's "Luck of Roaring Camp" and James Fenimore Cooper's "Leather Stocking Tales" were out of print in America half a century ago, but they still are among the six best sellers in the book stores in England!

They portrayed the speech of certain isolated sections of our country at that time, but in England they believe that roaring camp is the greatest city in America and that it is known locally as St. Louis, and they believe that we wear leather stockings in place of full dress pants.

A German officer must not expect the captain of a ship flying the American flag to greet him with "Say, yeou," or "Wall, stranger."

Nothing like it! If the ship is really an American ship the captain's first remark will be as follows:

Then all the American passengers on board the ship will rush to the rail and shout in unison: "Say, listen!"

Then after the German officer explains his mission, the American captain will speak as follows:

"Say, listen: there's nothing doing."

The German officer will then ask, "Are you British or American?" to which the American captain, being an American, must reply:

"Now you said somethin'!"

The German officer will continue to declare that a state of war exists, to which the captain, if he is really an American, will reply as follows:

"But listen—"

The German officer will mention that a state of war exists, to which the captain of the ship under suspicion will respond in this wise: "Now you said somethin'!"

The German officer will answer that unless proof is given him that the ship is American he must report to his superior officer that it is British and it will then be immediately blown out of the ocean.

To this, if the captain of the suspected ship is really an American, only one reply can be made. That reply will be:

"But listen!"

Then the German officer will know that the ship is not a British ship but unmistakably American.

MOTHER OF LYNCHED
MAN DECLINED BODY

Mayfield, Ky., Feb. 10.—Tom Tinker, alias Fisher, alias Watson, who was hanged here by a mob last night as a result of his having shot and killed Constable Richard Tart, was buried at the county poor farm this afternoon after his mother had declined to take charge of the body.

The mob did its work so quietly and cautiously that a coroner's investigation held to-day failed to develop any clew that might lead to the identity of any member.

It is said the mob was organized in the northern part of the county, where the killing of Tart took place.

The February Woman's Home Companion.

One of the striking contributions to the February Woman's Home Companion is an article by the Rev. Charles Stelzel entitled "Making the Church Do Real Work," in which he considers the question of the high cost of salvation. He does not, of course, consider that the money cost per convert which a church pays is any evidence as to the efficiency or inefficiency of that church, but he does show wherein some churches are vastly superior to others in the service which they perform to a community. In any event, his article is highly entertaining and thought-provoking and will undoubtedly arouse considerable discussion.

In the same issue, Ida M. Tarbell writes on "The Talkative Woman," and Anne Morgan, daughter of the late J. P. Pierpont Morgan, writes another tale to "The American Girl." Pasquale Amato, the celebrated barytone, tells "How to Listen to Opera," and Rollin Lynde Hartt describes his experiences in "Swearing Off" from the use of tobacco. Another interesting contribution entitled "The Woman Who is Owned by the Town" is a description of the busy and highly responsible lives of ministers' wives.

UNITED STATES ISSUES WARNING

To Britain and Germany
Anent Flag.

GENERAL USE OF OLD GLORY

By British Vessels Would Be Viewed With Grave
Concern Here.

NO JOINT REPRESENTATIONS

Washington, Feb. 11.—The United States has warned Great Britain and Germany, respectively, that general use of the American flag by British vessels would be viewed with grave concern here, and that the destruction by Germany of any American vessel in the newly prescribed war zone would lead to serious complications.

It became known to-day that the text of the two notes sent last night to Great Britain and Germany expressed much more emphatically than had been generally known the displeasure of the United States at the use of neutral flags by British merchantmen and its solicitude over the implication that neutral vessels were liable to destruction by German submarines in the waters around Great Britain and Ireland.

In the document which has been transmitted to Ambassador Gerard at Berlin for presentation to the German Foreign Office, there is a friendly but pointed statement that American vessels should have free and unrestricted passage through the high seas and unblocked waters, and that destruction of an American vessel might lead to a change in the hitherto friendly relations which have existed between the United States and Germany.

While in the note to Great Britain the representations made are not based on the Lusitania incident but on the statement of the British Foreign Office justifying the use of neutral flags by its vessels, the United States has stated unequivocally, it is understood, that a continuance of the practice would be highly dangerous to neutral vessels and would be viewed with the deepest anxiety here.

The texts of the two documents are expected to be published by the State Department to-morrow. Among diplomatists here the fact that the United States has taken a pronounced stand created a profound impression.

No joint representations with the United States on the same subjects have been made by any of the neutrals, though the various foreign offices, through their ministers here, have consulted the American Government as to its attitude.

It was declared unlikely in official quarters that the use of the American flag by the Lusitania or the Orduña would be selected for the subject of protest or diplomatic correspondence. The American Government, however, in its note, denies the right of a general use of the American flag, leaving, it is said, the inference that the one or two incidents which had occurred might have been justified under the circumstances.

There is no question, according to those who are familiar with the American Government's position, that the issuance of any orders from the British Admiralty, as Germany alleges, authorizing the use of the American flag would be disapproved. The British Foreign Office statement in that connection was taken by officials here as tantamount to a suggestion to British vessels that they could hoist a neutral flag. It is such an official and general countenance to the practice to which the United States takes exception.

PRACTICE OF HOLDING UP THE CANDIDATES

One incident that has been revealed by the testimony in the election fraud cases in Pike county can be applied with sense and reason throughout the State. In the testimony against Rome, a Baptist minister, convicted of selling his vote, it was brought out that Rome collected $25 from a man named Ramsay with the stipulation that Rome and his congregation vote for the candidate that Ramsay named.

This sort of thing, in much more polite form, goes on in every primary election in Hardin county, and we presume that it is practiced in the rest of the State. Candidates for offices are besieged by persons, sometimes preachers, soliciting funds to build churches, etc., and the club is held over the candidate's head that if he does not contribute, the minister and his flock will "get even" on election day. Instances have been known in which the support of an organization, civic or religious, has been promised to more than one contributing candidate in the same race.

The News, of course, is in sympathy with every movement to further religious work, but we believe that the practice of "holding up" the candidate has gone too far and works a detriment to the church.—[Elizabethtown News.

CHRISTIAN IDEAS OF BILLY SUNDAY

Expressed In His Characteristic Way.

TAKES ZACCHAEUS AS A THEME

And Impresses His Hearers That Now Is the Time Of Salvation.

URGES HASTE IN THE MATTER

In the course of his remarks recently, Billy Sunday, the noted evangelist, is quoted as making the following remarks:

"I'd like to live to see the time when I could go into a town, look for the man who has the greatest power with God and find him to be the man with the biggest bank account. If the church has men and women of wealth, then it ought to mean that it has more power for God, but it doesn't."

You know it and I know it, and whenever the day comes that every man whose name is on the church record will vote against the saloon, the saloon will go to hell."

Whenever the day comes that the church members withdraw their patronage from the theater, the theaters will shut up their doors and go out of business."

We Christians think we're "bearing fruit" when we're selling lemonade or raffling benches at a church picnic."

Solomon wouldn't have been any good in Sampson's day, because Sampson had to go around there and swat 'em."

You may have all the wealth and learning in the world, but if you have not Jesus Christ you have made a miserable failure of life."

The Publicans were hated by everybody. They correspond with the saloonkeepers of to-day. Gosh! If I went to the home of a brewer for dinner you'd have a fit, wouldn't you?"

Sermon on Zacchaeus.

In his sermon on Zacchaeus, Billy Sunday said:

Jesus told Zacchaeus to make haste, and he did. In these days, you make haste to get rich; you make haste to work in the factory; you make haste to declare dividends and you make haste to get public positions through politics; but the last thing you make haste with is to get right with God. "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and these other things shall be added unto you." The Christian life is a matter of arithmetic; sin is subtraction; it subtracts goodness, truth and virtue, while salvation is a matter of addition.

I can imagine Jesus and Zacchaeus and the disciples walking down the streets of Jericho. And as they came nearer the home of Zacchaeus, I can imagine his kids playing near the house, and as they saw their father, ran in and told their ma. I have tried to figure out what kind of woman Mrs. Zacchaeus was, but I haven't succeeded. Soon the visitors arrived and Zacchaeus introduced them. "This is Jesus of Nazareth, wife. This is Mrs. Zacchaeus, Jesus. And here is Mr. Peter and Mr. James and Mr. Bartholomew." No doubt they went through some form like that. After staying some time, Jesus left, as he said: "This day is salvation come to this house, for so much as he also is a son of Abraham. For the Son of Man has come to seek and to save that which was lost."

And as I go up and down the country, I meet those who are seeking riches, such as the young ruler and as Zacchaeus had, and I meet those who are seeking riches and earthly goods, professions and accomplishments, education, etc., and I tell them: "Seek ye first the kingdom of God."

What do the Scriptures tell us that Zacchaeus did? He made haste to come down out of the tree and to join Jesus. He did not say to him, "Jesus, you do not know who I am." No. He came down immediately and immediately began to talk about restitution. He wanted to get right with Christ.

The reason why some are not Christians, the reason some of them have not come down the sawdust path, is that they will have to pay back some of the things they have gained sinfully. They might have to put their business on another basis. Some of you have a sin in your life you think you can't give up, and that's why I keep pounding away.

There was a young Adams Express employe in Akron one time who stole a package containing $20,000. They arrested him, but their case was no good and he got free. However, the company was positive he had committed the theft, so they discharged him. One time he heard Moody in a sermon and afterward he sought Moody for a little conference. Moody agreed as soon as he heard he wished to make a confession. Moody told the young man to take the money back and told him to face arrest if he was guilty. The young man was so deeply convinced of his sin and he was so intent on doing right that he went back. Some of his relatives and friends made up the deficit of $600 which he had spent and they turned all of the money over to the company. The young man was arrested and sent to the penitentiary for three years, but when he entered the prison doors he was happier than he had ever been before. He was pardoned in a few months, but he died in a short while—poor fellow—from a loathsome disease he contracted while living his sinful life.

How would you like to feel the warming effect of a full and complete pardon through restitution? It is not a question with the Lord of what a man has been. It is what he is now, and what he intends to be in the future. If he will submit to, and will seek the Lord and will obey, he will have a full and complete pardon.

Zacchaeus went up into the tree through curiosity. Some of you came here through curiosity. Some of you hear reports that are derogatory and some hear reports of the other kind, and you come to see what kind of meetings they are having down here at the Tabernacle. If I thought for a minute that I was doing no more good than to satisfy your curiosity, I would go home to-night—so help me God, I would. But I don't care a rap if it was curiosity that brought you here.

Do you know why some of you have not hit the sawdust trail? It is because you are ashamed to walk down. You have not the manhood to do what your conscience tells you is the manly thing. I'd be ashamed not to walk down. I would be ashamed to refuse to yield to a noble impulse.

I can understand why you would refuse to lie or why you would refuse to be a libertine or an adulterer. But, goodness me, I can't understand why you refuse to be decent and accept Christ.

Some of you are afraid the gang will sneer at you; and the man in the shop will say in a contemptuous manner: "I hear you went forward." Be a man and tell him: "You bet your boots I went forward. Do you want anything out of me? I'm glad I had the manhood and grit enough to do it."

Come down from your pride. Are you afraid some fellow will sneer at you? Any man that sneers at another for being a Christian won't have to bend his knees if he is as low down in stature as he is in principle, to kiss a rat. Some of you are too contemptibly proud to need Christ. I know hell tries its best to appeal to pride. It takes a man to be a Christian; any fool can go to hell. A dead fish goes over the falls, but a live one wriggles against the current. So you're dead ones, that's all.

Zacchaeus came down. He did not think what some person might say. He was honored, and he made haste.

So should you make haste, because you are honored just as he was.

Most unsaved men think of God with a sort of fear. Well they might. Why shouldn't he fear who curses and blasphemes? With one hand God could sweep the entire people of the earth to death. He holds the seas and the skies in His hand. He is the son of God in power and is a son of man in sympathy.

God requires sinners to seek Him. There is no half-way measure. What if I were to walk down one side and up another and then come here and say I had lost something? No person would think it was of much value from the careless manner in which I looked for it. But if I were to hire several hundred men to rake all the sawdust up and to rub every particle of it through their hands and hunt for the thing in that manner, paying these men $5 a day, then I would be truly seeking it. The first effort I made carelessly down the aisles would be looking for the article, but the last effort would be seeking it.

"For the Son of God is come to seek and save that which is lost." The Bible says ye shall seek Jesus.

What if a fast train is put on one track, just back of it, headed in the same direction, was placed another engine, a slow one. The result would be that the slow train never would catch the first and fast one. But if they are put on the same track, facing each other, no matter how far apart, they soon will meet if started. Jesus seeks us, and it is our duty to seek Jesus.

At a meeting which was held in Saginaw, Mich., Colonel A. T. Bliss was among the converts to come forward. Later at a meeting he discussed the conversion and his Christian experience. He said that when he went into the army he went out as a private and he was advanced to Colonel. He then had the opportunity to give his heart to God, but he said, "No" to Him. Later on he thought if he only had the opportunity to represent his district in the Lower House of Congress, that he would give his heart to God and would be a professing Christian. But he said "No" after that. He said that he believed that if he could only be Governor, he would take the stand, but also said "No" then. If he could only be rich, he would do so then. But when he became a multi-millionaire, he still was disinclined. Finally, when he did so, he found that the best time always is NOW. Make haste! Make haste!

MOLASSES CANDY.

In the February Woman's Home Companion nannie Merritt Farmer, cookery editor of that publication, presents a dozen recipes for home-made candy. Following is her recipe for molasses candy:

"Put one-half cupful of butter in a common kettle or saucepan, place on range, and when butter is melted add two cupfuls of sugar, one cupful of molasses and one and one-half cupfuls of boiling water. Bring to the boiling point, and let boil with as little stirring as possible, until mixture will form a soft ball that will just keep in shape when tried in cold water. Turn into a buttered dripping pan, and as mixture cools around sides, fold toward center. When cool enough to handle, pull until porous and light colored, allowing candy to come in contact with tips of fingers and thumbs, not to be squeezed in the hand. Cut in small pieces or sticks and arrange on slightly buttered plates to cool. A few drops of oil of peppermint, cloves or cinnamon may be added during the stretching. To keep several days, wrap in squares of paraffin paper, store in a glass jar, and keep in a cold place."

Colds and Croup in Children.

Many people rely upon Chamberlain's Cough Remedy implicitly in cases of colds and croup, and it never disappoints them. Mrs. E. H. I have always given it to my children when suffering from croup, and it has never failed to give them prompt relief." For sale by all dealers. (Advertisement.)

PLAN FOR PEACE QUIETLY ON FOOT

Col. House In Europe As Wilson's Agent.

WILL SOUND THE SITUATION

Sent As the President's Personal Representative In Regard To Mediation.

NEUTRAL POLICY MAINTAINED

London, Feb. 12.—While not empowered to act officially, Col. E. M. House, the personal representative of President Wilson, has reached London on a mission that may exercise a potential influence in promoting peace between the warring nations of Europe.

Col. House arrived by the Lusitania, and is accompanied by his wife. His stay in London will be brief. The length of his visit to Continental countries will depend upon the result of his investigation, undertaken at the instance of the American President, to whom he will make frequent confidential cable and mail reports.

The utmost secrecy surrounds the mission of Col. House. The only public announcement made regarding it is that he has been commissioned by the President to effect a co-ordination of the various relief ventures undertaken under the supervision of the United States.

In this capacity he will inquire into the status of these undertakings, with particular reference to improvement in the matter of transporting the food and money solely intended to relieve distress and collected and forwarded under American auspices.

It is the understanding, nevertheless, of diplomatic officials at London, Paris, Berlin, Petrograd and Vienna that Col. House is on a mission of even greater significance, the result of which may go far toward promoting the expanding efforts to bring about a termination of hostilities.

From a diplomatic source that justifies authoritative acceptance, The World correspondent has obtained a comprehensive view of the actual purposes of the mission of Col. House.

Unofficially Col. House is to conduct an inquiry to ascertain the feeling of the European Governments at war entirely through the Ambassadorial representatives of the American Government at London, Paris, Berlin, Petrograd and Vienna.

It is apparent from the instructions under which Col. House is proceeding that the American President has not departed in the slightest degree from the policy established by him in August last. Soon after the invasion of Belgium by the German forces the President made formal tender of his services as mediator.

Col. House will therefore make no further representation in that respect on the part of the United States. But he is intrusted with the duty of collecting information which may form a basis for the renewal of the mediation offer by the United States.

The interpretation placed upon the mission of Col. House by diplomats is that he will proceed with the greatest caution in carrying out the wishes of President Wilson, and in no way justify a criticism that the United States is desirous of interfering or influencing any of the powers at war.

That there have been exchanges of representations between the Russian and Austrian Foreign Offices on the one hand and the American Government on the other, during the last month, is known here. It is more than probable that these representations have contributed largely to the mission upon which Col. House is now engaged.

NEWSPAPER EFFECT ON THE ENGLISH SABBATH

It may not occur to the average neutral that a people supporting armies to fight battles every day in the week would quibble over the morality of reading newspapers on Sunday. Yet the people of Great Britain are in the grip of a controversy covering that point. Before this war broke out Sunday newspapers were unknown in England. The Pike county bribery election cases disclosed the fact that some women sold their votes for a dollar while the men got $3 for the same "commodity." Looks like the ladies ought to have gotten at least $2.98.

It is apparent to the casual reader that several attempts have been made by foreign powers to entangle the United States in the European war. Each of these intimidating demonstrations has been met with a brave and statesmanlike attitude on the part of our Chief Executive and his cabinet. Uncle Sam doesn't want to fight, but he will take no "sass."

The Morgantown Republican says: "It has been the rule in this county that no one could be nominated or elected without putting booze or money into the elections. Is it not time to call a halt?" Inasmuch as Butler county has been going Republican ever since Heck's hound ancestor was a pup, we refer the above inquiry to the Republican State Committee.

We hope our readers, especially the Fiscal Court and farmers of the county, are taking notice of and reading the articles on State aid for county roads running in The Herald. Another very comprehensive article appears on the 7th page to-day. It is a splendid innovation and means much for the agricultural classes, while it does not increase the tax levy. It is not necessary to vote a bond issue in order to inaugurate this system. This is a vital matter for Ohio county.

The time has arrived when the people of this country should think of their own native land also, when contemplating charity towards foreign nations. The old adage that "charity begins at home" never had so strong an application as right now. There are many people in this country who are in quite as pitiable condition as some of those distressing situations in Europe. The European war has been the primal cause of all this. We should at least divide our donations between the suffering poor of this and other countries.

And Fanny Crosby, the famous hymn writer, is dead! Gone in the grand old age year of 95! It would be hard to estimate the force for good of this noble woman. Though denied the blessed privilege of sight, her wonderful talent seemed to shine all the brighter in her great work for her Master. Many thousands of souls were brought to Christ under the spell of her soul-inspiring songs. Her personal memory may be forgotten in a great measure in the years to come, but through the spirit of her beautiful hymns the soul of Fanny Crosby will go marching on.

About three hundred Kentucky Republicans attended the big "get-together" banquet at Louisville Friday night. A newspaper account says that only one former Bull Moose was on the speaking list, which contained a dozen speakers. It is said that "the dominant note in all the speeches was the necessity for all members and elements of the party to forget former differences and unite in an effort to change the national administration." In other words, the Mooers were invited by the Republican leaders to "come over" and help elect a Republican President.

There can be no sort of doubt, in the hearts of all fair-minded people, that the European war is the cause of nearly all the general depression in business and working circles in this country recently. For this the present national administration nor any of our hundred million people were or are to be blamed. Yet there are some political agitators who not only blame the Democratic administration for industrial troubles, but evidently would be glad if our President could be nagged into a war with European powers, in order to "clinch" their condemnation upon him. The present native enemies of Woodrow Wilson are in a great measure the enemies of their own country, of which he is the Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy.

The Harrodsburg Herald, giving way to a spell of philosophy, says: "We believe in prayer, or course, but there is reason to believe there is more joy among the angels over one sinner who gives a hungry man a job when the weather is cold than over the ninety and nine plump men who pray that the winds be tempered to the sheep, lambs and at the same time do nothing towards providing them with shelter."

And the Herald is exactly right. What we need nowadays is a practical, materially helpful religion that manifests itself as much toward the physical as the spiritual needs of the people. It is sometimes said of a man (usually after he is dead) that he "lived his religion," which means that his heart was all right and his helpful attitude towards his fellow man, the same.

GERMAN TOLL ESTIMATED AT 10,000 TROOPS DAILY

Paris, Feb. 13.—"Ten thousand troops lost and $13,000,000 expended has been the German daily war toll during the past six months," said Francis Laur, famous statistician here.

"At the same time Germany is paying double prices for all important commodities," he continued. "Such a terrific strain cannot possibly be borne beyond next July."

"The military theory is that when an army has lost 25 per cent. of its effectives it becomes inoperative; that is to say, it cannot win."

"Germany has lost 38 per cent. of its effectives after allowing for the slightly wounded who are capable of returning to the front."

"I don't believe the German people soon can be reduced by famine, and that is the opinion of Jules Cambon, our last Ambassador to Berlin, but the scarcity of gold and the fearful decimation of her army will be found to make her admit defeat by next summer."

"Germany and Austria's gold reserve at the end of December amounted to $626,000,000, whereas the allies had in reserve $2,259,000,000."

A HEAVY TAX TO BE ASSESSED BELGIANS

By Germany If Refugees Do Not Return On Or Before
March 1.

Washington, Feb. 13.—The Belgian Legation has issued a statement here denouncing a tax imposed by Germany upon Belgian refugees who do not return to the country by March 1 as a confiscation in violation of The Hague Convention. The statement was issued after Minister Havenith had called at the State Department. It follows:

"A great number of Belgians, amounting to nearly 1,000,000, fled from their country to save their lives and safeguard their honor after the burning of many houses, the slaughter of many harmless citizens and the devastation of the country by the German troops."

"Now the German Government imposes a tax equal to ten times the usual personal tax, on all Belgians absent from their country who shall not be back in Belgium before March 1, 1915."

"The German Government, after having imposed an enormous war levy of 480,000,000 francs ($96,000,000) upon Belgium, already ruined by war and numerous exactions, made on December 14, 1914, the formal promise that no further taxes would be imposed upon the country."

"The new taxation laid upon the absent Belgians is, therefore, not only a violation of The Hague Conventions, but constitutes the breach of a most solemn pledge."

FINANCIAL STATEMENT IS VERY ENCOURAGING

Viewing the country as a whole, the following extract from Dunn's weekly financial statement, is the most sanely encouraging since the outbreak of the European war:

"The great advance in the price of wheat, due primarily to the urgent world demand, is enriching the agriculture of the West and is contributing to increased commercial prosperity in that section, though the violence of the movement produces some concern as to its other effects. The recent rise in cotton, with expansion of exports, has reduced in considerable degree the sharp depression in the South, caused by the war. The strength of the financial situation increases every day, and this imparts a sense of security and courage to enterprise everywhere."

A Notable Example.

A Washington dispatch says: The White House baby is a fine healthy child, but did not overburden the stork that brought him. His grandfather, worried over the lack of avoidupoise, consulted an old family friend, Dr. Blythe.

"He seems well and strong," said the President, "but he weighs only six and a half pounds."

"I wouldn't worry about that, Mr. President," was the reply. "Look at Ollie James. He weighed only four pounds when he was born."

THE BLIND HYMN WRITER IS DEAD

With 8,000 Songs To Her Credit.

FANNY CROSBY NOW NO MORE

Wrote So Many Hymns the Publishers Had To Disguis Her Name.

SHE WAS IN HER 95TH YEAR

Bridgeport, Conn., Feb. 12.—Fanny Crosby, well known hymn writer, died to-day at her home in her ninety-fifth year. Eight thousand hymns of Christian worship sung in Protestant churches throughout the world, are the work of Fanny Crosby. No, one since the days of Charles Wesley or Isaac Watts has made anywhere near as large a contribution to the gospel song book as did the blind writer whose death occurred to-day.

Fanny Crosby's name was signed so regularly as author of one hymn after another that the hymn book makers of a quarter of a century ago were forced to give her some 200 different pen names to make it appear that someone besides the famous writer had contributed. Thousands—perhaps hundreds of thousands—who sang her songs, which were translated into every language, did not know that it was a blind woman's inspiration which they employed to express their Christian faith and hope in song.

"Saved By Grace," "Blessed Assurance," "Rescue the Perishing" and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus" are typical of Fanny Crosby's most popular religious verses. Of the latter the writer has related an incident showing the remarkable rapidity with which she employed her inspiration and her talents of versification.

W. H. Doane, who wrote the music for many of her verses, had called one morning at Miss Crosby's home in New York.

"I must take a train to Cincinnati in 40 minutes," he said, and I have some music for which I want you to write a hymn."

"He sat down at the piano and played his music."

"I think I can write it, Mr. Doane," I said.

"I hurried upstairs and sat down to write. For some time I was entirely oblivious of surroundings. When I came back to my full senses the hymn was written and was on paper before me. I learned that I had only taken fifteen minutes. Triumphant I carried it down to Mr. Doane. The music he played then and the words I had hurriedly written are the same as used to-day in singing 'Safe in the Arms of Jesus.' "It was my most successful hymn, and I believe it was dictated by the spirit of the Lord, and that it was born for a mission."

But Fanny Crosby did not begin hymn-writing until she was over forty years of age. Fifty years ago she was best known for her popular melodies, which were whistled all over the country, such as "Proud World, Good-bye, I'm Going Home," "Hazel Dell," "The Honeysuckle Glen," and "Never Forget the Dear Ones."

Born in Putnam county, New York State, March 24, 1820, christened Frances Jane Crosby, she was married to Alexander Van Alstyne, a blind music teacher who died many years ago. Her mother had lived to be 102, and her grandmother to be 106. She retained to the last all her faculties—excepting eyesight. She lost this during a fever in infancy when a hot poultice was applied to her eyes, destroying the optic nerve.

Her death was not unexpected, as her health had been failing for some time. Shortly before the end she became unconscious and remained in that state until death. At her bedside were her niece, Mrs. Henry D. Booth, and other members of the family with whom she long had made her home.

In spite of feeble health, especially within the past few months, Miss Crosby continued writing hymns up to a short time before her death.

GIRL'S SUDDEN DEATH

TRAGIC CLOSE TO DANCE

The Courier-Journal of Friday says:

Just as the orchestra ceased playing and while almost 100 dancers were clamoring for an encore, Miss Emma Schuckmann, 17 years old, of 619 South Twenty-fifth street, collapsed and died within five minutes, at Ostrader's Hall, 622 South Twenty-eighth street, shortly before 11 o'clock last night. Death was due to over-exertion and a weak heart, according to Deputy Coroner Kammerer.

The girl and her partner, Dee Royalty, of 2122 Cedar street, had danced one encore. Just after the last step of the number Miss Schuckmann said she felt dizzy and asked to be led to a chair. While walking across the floor she fell. Excitement prevailed in the hall, while efforts were being made to restore her to consciousness. Drs. B. J. O'Connor, 2407 West Chestnut street, and Benjamin Vaughn, 2802 West Chestnut street, were summoned. The girl died before they reached the hall.

AN APPEAL FOR THE OLD EQUITY SOCIETY

Asking All Those Who Believe In Its Principles To Act Promptly.

Having been asked on a number of occasions what is going to be done about pooling poultry, and always by one who has been a member of the A. S. of E. and peddled his product, it seems strange to me that these people who seem to be so much interested when something is to be sold, will not move but stand and look like wise old owls and want some one else to start. Before our recent campaign in this county, every one spoke favorably and encouragingly and then would not make a start, but always waited for the other fellow to start and say they will then follow. They are now calling for the county officers to do something for them in the line of handling their product.

Brother farmers, don't you know that your servants who have stood so firm to your welfare can't do a single thing unless you get behind the move and give the wheel a shove? We as your officers are perfectly powerless without your help and co-operation. We must have the stuff before we can make a sale. We absolutely must have the stuff reported and pledged before we can do a single thing. Don't think that when you sign a pledge that this is all, for it must be reported before the sale is made and there must be dues or some substantial means provided to finance the job. One can't afford to spend valuable time to attend to your business simply for a "thank you" job.

The county officers have decided to make a call for the county union of the A. S. of E. for Saturday, February 20, at 10 o'clock, for the poultry and wool poolers especially to meet at Hartford to try and get the A. S. of E. back together and make arrangements to handle these products. Not only do we want the poultry and wool growers but all who want to see the A. S. of E. again launched. For those who want fertilizer and fencing there will be some very attractive prices made, so any one wanting either of these can't afford to miss this meeting. One ton of fertilizer or a few rods of fencing will pay your dues for two or three years. Come and see if this is not true.

Now don't let this slip your mind, but do your duty and meet us and let's get together. You can't deny that it is educational and uplifting. It is in keeping with the teachings of the word of God.

BEATITUDES FIX PAPER'S POLICY

Publisher Tells Of His Uphill Fight.

SUCCESS IS NOW IN SIGHT

RATHER CURIOUS EXPERIMENT

The Chicago Herald says:
The beatitudes and newspapers may seem a long ways apart, but a success which has attended the application of the Sermon on the Mount to the operation of a twentieth century newspaper was outlined last night at the Sunday Evening Club at Orchestra Hall.

James Schermerhorn, publisher of the Detroit Daily Times, told of the long, up-hill fight waged in an effort to let the "blesseds" dictate the policy of his newspaper.

He undertook the work, he said, simply because one newspaper man in Detroit had declared that no newspaper could be "run on Sunday School lines."

"It is going to take the first twenty years of the century to complete the experiment," Mr. Schermerhorn said. "We started even with the century, so we have five years more."

"With the fiery zeal of youth I unfolded my dream to many of my associates and friends, and found it rather easy to get them to promise to take stock in the enterprise. A few of them did. Friends in southern Michigan raised $40,000 and I started."

"I announced that I would sell the newspaper for 1 cent, which would save the subscribers' time, eyes and pennies. They co-operated with us in saving pennies, for, while we took 1 cent off the price of the paper, the subscribers withheld the other cent."

"At the first annual meeting the capital stock was increased to $75,000. We were going ahead steadily in circulation, averaging 25,000 the first year. We were giving the beatitudes a strenuous experience, and our stockholders increased the capitalization to $150,000 when the other newspapers in Detroit reduced their price to a cent. Our losses up to Dec. 31, 1901, were $64,000."

"In 1902 the deficit was $23,000; in 1903, $14,000. In 1904 we made $500, so we decided to draw closer to the beatitudes."

"We refused all objectionable medical advertisements, and the result was tragic. With a circulation of 36,000, our paper lost that year $14,000. The falling off of advertising was offset by subscriptions, and in 1908 we made $3,000 and the following three years $6,000."

"We then dropped all liquor and cigarette advertising, piano puzzles and wildcat mining schemes, and, although we lost $6,000 in 1912, we were characterized as 'the salt of the earth.'"

"We found that many truly religious people had been enthused when we refused liquor and medical advertisements and then dropped the paper because we printed news about prize fights and theatrical announcements."

"We got back to the right side of the ledger in 1914, and there is nothing more to renounce in keeping with the beatitudes. With a press capable of printing thirty-two pages we will be prepared to serve the saints who want beatitudes plus magnitude.

"Possibly we will require the entire twenty years to prove that a newspaper can be both ethical and animate. If the Kingdom of Heaven is within us, why not within the pages of the daily press, where is everything else?"

"So may it be. The blessing promised in the Sermon on the Mount is the blessing held up for the poor in spirit and the persecuted."

"If our idea spreads it will bring a day when the American press shall be as unsullied as is free—a press without spot or blemish or wrinkle or any such thing."

EDISON DECLARES HE'LL
"NEVER HELP KILL MEN"

While some of the marvelous inventions of Thomas Alva Edison have been applied to instruments of warfare, the electrical wizard, who celebrated his sixty-eighth birthday on February 11, has never turned his inventive genius in the direction of perfecting methods of killing men. What's more, he says he never will. "Making killing machines is against my fiber," he recently declared. "I leave that death-dealing work to my friends, the Maxim brothers." Mr. Edison believes that the war will probably last two years longer, and that the result will be a new map of Europe based on racial lines. "The war may not mean the end of kingdoms," said the wizard, "but it will sound the death knell for autocratic government. Democracy is spreading in Europe, and this will do more to bring it about than anything else could. Personally, I would rather live in the most corrupt of American cities than in one of your orderly German cities, where a man must perform every act according to a code of laws set down and jealously guarded by armed hands."

"Germany has made the great mistake of assuming that France and Great Britain are decadent nations," said Mr. Edison. "The Germans are a great people, commercially and industrially, but they have been reared in the atmosphere of egotism. It is too bad that everything in the country has been subordinated to the military caste, and I think the sooner this system is ended the better for the German people."

The great Edison plants at West Orange, N. J., were visited by fire last December, entailing a loss of over $2,000,000, but the wizard was not in the least worried, and declared that nothing had been lost that could not be replaced. The industries affected are now practically normal, although only two months have elapsed since the fire.

HAPPINESS.

Happiness is not so much a question of possessing the best, but of making the best of what we have. The mere possession of temporal wealth, which so many persons seem to think insures perfect contentment and consequently happiness, is certainly not enough for any man, however much opinions may vary on this point. It is human nature never to be quite satisfied; the more a man has the more he wants, and even with the means to gratify his normal tastes and inclinations there are times when he wants something more, something that his easy circumstances deny to him—a healthy interest in life. The man whose fortune insures his material comfort for the rest of his natural life can have no real interest of the kind which his poorer neighbor possesses. Of course, in his earlier years he is privileged to indulge his natural cravings for the joys that money can bring, but after a while these joys lose their primal interest, which can not bring him true happiness. He even envies his less fortunately circumstanced neighbors their faculty of getting something out of life which he is not able to obtain—the perennial hope of something better still to come.—[Charleston News and Courier.]

Marked Down.
Charles broke the spell as in a dejected tone of voice he said:

"Miss Fraser, I love you, but dare not dream of calling you mine. Yesterday I was worth $25,000, but today, by a turn of fortune's wheel, I have but a few paltry hundreds to call my own. I would not ask you to accept me in my reduced state. Farewell forever."

As Charlie was about to stride mournfully away she caught him and eagerly cried:
"Good gracious! Reduced from $25,000 to $300. What a bargain! Of course, I'll take you. You might have known I couldn't resist."

When a woman is angry she tells a man just what she thinks of him—and, incidentally, just what she thinks other people think of him.

SOMETHING CONCERNING ORIGIN OF WAR TERMS

Some Curious Bits of History
Woven About Arms and Munitions.

With the exception of shrapnel, named after its inventor, an English Colonel, there are very few war terms now in use which have a British origin.

Sword, musket, grenadier, dragoon are all alien terms. "Grenadier" is generally supposed to come from the French. The word is, however, of German birth, and originally was "grenatier," the force owing their name to the hand-grenades with which they were armed.

The word "musket" has an Italian derivation: "moschetto," which was really a species of small sparrow-hawk. In ancient times and in the middle ages the name musket was used to designate a small mortar which threw arrows.

When gunpowder was invented a small cannon was baptized "musket," and later the rifle of the ordinary infantryman earned the name, while the whole unit was called "musketeers."

Both "dragoon" and "cuirassier" come from the French. The dragoons had a dragon painted on their shields, and the cuirassiers carried a breast protection made of copper—in French "cuivre."

"Hussar" comes from the Hungarian word "husz," which means "twenty." The force derived its name from the fact that long ago every twentieth recruit in Hungary was placed in one of the mounted regiments.

The uhlans owe their name to the Turks. It comes from the Turkish word "oglan," youth.

"Sword" comes from the Polish word "szabla," and "pistol" from the Italian town Pistoja, which was famous in the middle ages for its arms factories.

The bayonet takes its name from the French town Bayonne, where the inventor lived some 125 years ago.

"Howitzer" is derived from the Czech word "houfnice," a wooden apparatus used in ancient times for the purpose of throwing stones. We meet with the word also in the Hussite war, in the fifteenth century, where the weapon figures as "hauffnitz."

The officer's rank of Major was derived originally from the Spanish word "mayor," signifying great or high.

Even "war" itself comes from a foreign source, coming down with the Italian and Spanish "guerra," and the French "guerre" from the old German "werra."—[New York American.]

WHEN THE TIRED MOTHER GIVES OUT

What Then?—The Family Sufferers, the Poor Mothers Suffer—Mrs. Becker Meets This Distressing Situation.

Collinsville, Ill.—"I suffered from a nervous break-down and terrible headaches, and was tired all over, totally worn out and too discouraged to enjoy life, but as I had four in family and sometimes eight or nine boarders, I kept on working despite my suffering."

"I saw Vinol advertised and decided to try it, and within two weeks I noticed a decided improvement in my condition and now I am a well woman."

—Mrs. ANA BECKER, Collinsville, Ill.

There are hundreds of nervous, run-down, overworked women in this vicinity who are hardly able to drag around and who we are sure would be wonderfully benefited by Vinol as Mrs. Becker was.

The reason Vinol is so successful in building up health and strength in such cases is because it combines the medicinal tissue building and curative elements of cod's livers together with the blood making, strengthening properties of tonic iron. We ask every weak, nervous, run-down man or woman in this vicinity to try a bottle of Vinol on our guarantee to return their money if it fails to benefit.

and money has been established and maintained by Republicans. Every larger organized blunder, like Fort D. A. Russell, maintained without rhyme or reason in an arid desert a thousand miles from the nearest possible enemy, owes its existence to the pull of Republican Congressmen and Senators who want "Government money" spent in their States or districts, and are willing to make political capital out of cash that should be used to secure the land against insult and invasion.

To let a party with such a record pose as the sole hope of national defense is a folly of which the Democrats can not, must not be guilty. The Democratic party must follow the wise counsels of the present Secretary of War and provide this country with an army able to meet the demands of modern warfare.—[Chicago Journal.]

HOW TO GET STATE AID

Counties may obtain state aid for road building through several different channels. The county may raise the money to meet the funds available from the state by two methods, viz: by general taxation, and by bond issues. In either case the county's funds and the state's funds or both may be supplemented by donations from corporations or private citizens, provided such donations are paid in cash to the treasurer of the county or state.

Since the state is to aid in the building of these roads and since the counties' funds in most instances are very limited for construction or reconstruction it is only just and fair that those living along the line of a road to be improved and who receive the direct and greatest benefit accruing from said improvement shall aid in bearing the expense of each improvement in proportion to the benefits derived therefrom. And since the state is to pay one-half the cost, the ratio should be—state fifty per cent, county 25 per cent, and abutting property owners and the private subscriptions, the other 25 per cent. Most certainly the abutting property owners and private subscriptions should amount to not less than 15 per cent. In the latter event the county would have to pay 35 per cent of the cost. The county in no instance should be required to pay for right of way.

Pulaski and Rockcastle counties and several others have requested state aid for the improvement of certain inter-county seat roads, stating to the abutting property owners that the county will put up $5,000, provided said property owners and other citizens of the county will put up another $5,000, and have requested that the work be done under plans and specifications of the State Department of Public Roads and in accordance with the State Aid Road Law. This would in general insure $20,000 worth of road work for the county. However, this depends on the number of applications for state aid and the amounts requested.

Few counties are so fortunate as Jefferson, Shelby, Campbell and Kenton as to be able to ask for all the state aid fund that they will be entitled to receive, and to be able to appropriate the necessary money from their road fund to meet state aid, without impairing or totally destroying their general maintenance fund. In no instance should the maintenance be overlooked.

The roads to receive state aid are the inter-county seat roads, and after such roads have been improved, then such other roads as may be designated may be improved, but to build a comprehensive system such as is outlined by this law will require ten years with national aid and without it fifteen or twenty years.

A county wishing to secure the completion of this comprehensive system at an early date can do so only by assuming the cost of such a system through the issuance of bonds. Usually the county's road fund and therefore the state's portion to the county is so small that only a few miles can be built in one year, but by means of a bond issue a system may be completed at less expense because a larger amount of work may be accomplished in a comparatively short time and the roads may be used while they are being paid for by the citizens of the county and commonwealth. The state will reimburse the county for such work done in accordance to the state aid law, to the extent of one-half the amount of money actually spent on construction or reconstruction of roads, payment being made annually as the county's portion of the road fund is available.

Two counties have thus far availed themselves of this means of securing good roads, viz: Lewis and Carter. The voters of Lewis county approving the bond issue for $150,000 on the 11th day of July by a vote of 21,000 yeas to 140 nays. The voters of Carter county, on November 3d, ratified a bond issue for $150,000 for the improvement of their roads by 307 more votes than the necessary two-thirds majority required to carry the issue.

In every other instance where a vote has been taken for a bond issue, a majority of the votes cast have been in favor of said issue, thus showing conclusively that a majority of the thinking people favor the improvement of their roads by rapid and up-to-date methods.

These statements are corroborated by the result shown from such elections held in the following counties: Mason, November 3rd, $200,000; Campbell, November 3rd, $150,000 to build roads, $100,000 to buy toll roads; Kenton, November 3, $200,000; Boone, November 3, $75,000; Pulaski, April 24, and again on June 26th, $300,000; Warren, May 19th, $300,000; Simpson, May 2, $100,000, and Menifee, September, $35,000.

Unfortunately, however, for the promotion of road building, the Constitution requires that two-thirds of the votes cast on a bond question shall be in favor of the same before it shall be declared carried.

Every county in the Commonwealth should follow the example of Lucas, Lawrence, Carter, Johnson, Madison, Boyd, Rockcastle, Shelby, Warren, Jefferson, Harrison and Logan counties by applying for state aid. No county is too rich—as has been shown by Jefferson county's application—and no county is so poor that she cannot apply for and receive a portion of the fund on one of the three plans mentioned above. No county can afford to lose the money she is paying toward the state road fund or fail to accept the generous offer made by the state.

SOME INQUIRIES INTO MEXICAN CONDITIONS

To Be Made By Duval West as Personal Representative of President.

Washington, Feb. 12.—Duval West, former United States District Attorney at San Antonio, Texas, was selected to-day to go to Mexico as the personal representative of President Wilson.

Secretary Bryan announced Mr. West's selection. His mission is similar to that of Paul Fuller, who recently conferred with the various leaders and returned to this country with his reports. Mr. West carries no written instructions, but is commissioned to make general inquiries into the conditions, interview the principal leaders, including Carranza, Villa, Zapata, and make clear to them the position of the United States Government with respect to the protection of foreigners and their interests.

After conferences with President Wilson and Secretary Bryan, Mr. West left to-night for his home in San Antonio, Texas, from which point he probably will go to Vera Cruz to talk with General Carranza.

News of the military situation in Mexico reaching the State Department to-day was brief. Further reports of the defeat of the Carranza forces at Monterey were received, with the information that about 1,000 wounded troops have been put on trains and sent from the scene of the battle to the border.

Enrique C. Llorente, Washington representative of General Villa, received a telegram from the latter saying he personally had captured with his forces, a station just in front of Guadalupe and expected to retake the city from the Carranza forces within another day or two. The famine conditions in Mexico City are growing serious.

PUZZLING SHIFT HAS TAKEN PLACE

Within the Last Generation Concerning

THE PROBLEM OF INSANITY

Some Apparent Causes Leading Up To This Remarkable Phenomenon.

LIQUOR DRINKING IS DEADLY

The latest census report on insanity in the United States seems to show that a very puzzling shift has taken place in the last generation.

In 1880 there were 20,635 men and 20,307 women in American asylums. The nominal excess of males was very slight, and in proportion to their share of the population a somewhat larger number of women than men became insane in those days.

In 1910 the condition was more than reversed. There were then 98,695 insane males and 80,096 insane females in the United States—a ratio of 111 men to 100 women. Taking admissions to hospitals for that year, the figures were even more startling, 128 men to 100 women.

The Census Bureau explains the excess of men in two words—whiskey and vice. The forms of insanity due to alcohol and venereal disease count more than four times as many male as female victims, and aside from these cases the numbers of the two sexes in asylums are substantially equal.

Very good—but how does it come that the drinking and dissipating tendency of the male sex did not show to its disadvantage until after 1880? Practically the whole campaign against alcohol has been made since that time, vast areas have become "dry," drinking, even moderate drinking, has been abolished in many occupations; sex hygiene has been born—yet "alcoholic psychoses" and general paralysis are claiming more victims than ever. Why?

The Journal can see three possible explanations for this remarkable phenomenon.

1. That the modern excess of male insanity is really due to the increase of disease spread by commercialized vice, and that its association with alcohol is accidental.

2. That some new and at present unknown factor makes liquor drinking more dangerous now than formerly, a factor strong enough to more than offset all the gains of temperance.

3. That the increased strain of modern industrial life bears more heavily on men than on women, so that masculine habits which once wreaked little damage now cause utter breakdowns.

Each of these explanations is plausible, but this paper is unable even to guess which one is true—if any. The question is decidedly interesting. [Chicago Journal.]

SOME "SENSELESS" WARS BOTH ABROAD AND HERE

Many Americans speak of the European war as "senseless." It is difficult for us to find any adequate cause for beginning it in the incidents that led up to its beginning. We wonder why all the warring nations cannot see it as we do. We think less of their intelligence for not doing so.

Yet we are having right here at home, if not wars with killings out of hand, at least conflicts quite as "senseless," in that they seem to detached observers to have lost any purpose save that of fighting just for the sake of beating the other side—in which the winners can gain nothing of value and the losers lose nothing worth keeping. There's the deadlock in the ill-nois House, for example. The warring factions are reported to be filled with a "don't care" spirit. They don't care how long the public business is neglected. It is even proposed to take a recess until along in June, and then meet only to pass the appropriations, letting all general legislation slide!

And there's the conflict over the ship bill in the Senate. It has become evident that neither the merits nor the demerits of the plan are counting for anything much. It is simply a struggle to see whether the President and his friends are "bigger" than the President's opponents.

No, we really have not much to brag about when it comes to fighting without reason. We are doing it here as well as they are in Europe. [Chicago Herald.]

THE WHEAT MATTER IS MANY-SIDED QUESTION

The extraordinary rise in wheat and the predictions that wheat may reach $2 a bushel, along with the big wheat exports to which this tendency is attributed, show how many-sided is the question involved. Big prices for wheat mean money to somebody, and a large export trade is admittedly a good thing.

Yet there may be too large exports, as well as too small ones, and with the great crops we had last year, the American people ought to be beyond the necessity of paying exorbitant prices for any crop commodity. If the farmer was getting his share of the high prices of wheat, that would be a compensation. But how much does this spurt in wheat mean to the farmer? [Buffalo (N. Y.) Times.]

CONFESSES TO A CRIME OF TWENTY YEARS AGO

And Returns To Make Restitution—Powerful Influence Of Christianity.

The Owensboro Messenger of Sunday says:

A search for the man who twenty years ago destroyed the saloon of Charles and Edward Morris, at Holland, Ind., was terminated yesterday morning, when Moritz Dretchel, an aged German man, located Charles F. Morris at the Glenmore distillery, confessed his guilt and offered to make restitution for the loss incurred.

Inspired by jealousy over the success of the Morris brothers, Dretchel, then thirty-eight years old, entered the saloon one night and destroyed the whiskey and wines in the saloon. Fearing he would be captured, Dretchel fled to parts unknown. The Morris brothers, unable to restore the property destroyed, went out of business. Every effort to locate the culprit proved futile.

Eleven years ago Charles Morris came to Owensboro and after a year's residence here, secured a position at the Glenmore distillery. His brother went West and was never heard of. Charles Morris had almost forgotten the Holland episode, and had relaxed his efforts to locate the man who destroyed his business.

According to Dretchel's story, he fled to Salem, Ind., and remained in hiding for several weeks. He then wandered from place to place and finally located in Louisville. Four months ago he joined St. Paul's Episcopal church in Louisville, and, as he stated, "was soon inspired with the grace of God." His one thought was to make restitution for his crime. He went to Holland and was told that Morris was located at Hawesville. From Hawesville he was directed to Jasper. He then went to Jasper and there learned that Morris was in Owensboro. He walked from Hawesville to Owensboro, and about 8 o'clock yesterday morning learned that Morris was employed at the Glenmore.

When Morris and Dretchel met, the latter broke down and wept. He offered to make restitution so that his conscience would be clear. Dretchel is fifty-eight years old. He will return to Jasper, where he will make his home. Morris stated that he would not prosecute Dretchel.

BEAVER DAM.

Feb. 15.—This morning we accompanied the children to the calling of books. Prof. Stillwell opened school with 300 scholars present. He and his corps of teachers are teaching a very interesting school. Forty pupils have entered the school from out of town. Prof. Leach has in the normal department. There are 9 in the graduating class. Mrs. Isaac Mason has charge of the little tots and will give an entertainment next Monday in honor of Washington's birthday. As Mrs. Mason is a good teacher and fine disciplinarian, she will have an interesting entertainment. Those interested would do well to attend. As I watched the methods of teaching in our present school I could not help noticing the contrast in the present methods of teaching and those of the long ago. Soon after the Civil War a school district was organized in my father's neighborhood and the farmers of the community met and built a log house for the new district. Mrs. Callie Gordon taught the first school in the new district. They named the district Green Brier. In that little log house our present County Judge and School Superintendent learned their letters, and two Baptist ministers and Mr. E. P. Neal, who was at one time County Attorney of the county, got their first lessons, but that little log schoolhouse and its split log benches are now numbered with the things of the past, and a nice cottage schoolhouse is in its place. It is now a large district and up-to-date teachers are employed there of late years. Only three of the members are living who built that first schoolhouse. They are Levi Wilson, Mathias Neal and Ellis Chapman. All the others have "crossed over the river."

Mrs. H. D. Taylor and little children were the guests of our pencil-pusher and wife Sunday. They will visit Mrs. Taylor's brother, Mr. Luther Renter, and Mrs. A. K. Miller before they return to their home at Princeton, Ky.

The State Guard basketball team of Livermore played the first team of the Beaver Dam school Saturday evening. The Beaver Dam boys made a clean sweep with them, getting 140 to Livermore's 9. The game was well attended and very interesting.

Misses Annie Alford, Mayme Williams and Eloise Austin entertained a few friends Saturday evening with a progressive Valentine party. They assembled at the home of Miss Annie. Next they went to the home of Miss Eloise Austin and from there they went to the home of Miss Mayme. Light refreshments were served at each home.

OLATON.

Feb. 15.—Roads are almost impassable. An empty wagon is a good load for a team. The public road immediately on the west side of the railroad is all but impassable.

Mr. Sam Jamison is the only farmer in this vicinity preparing for a tobacco crop. He will raise a crop on the Chester Lyons farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Carson Duncan, Davidson Station, visited Mrs. Duncan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Canan, from Saturday until Monday. Mr. Sam Riley was in Olaton last Friday, arranging to load a car of chickens here.

Two of Mr. Joe Miller's children have pneumonia, but not seriously. Mr. Sidney Grant's son has pneumonia.

Mr. Ed Ford is suffering from a relapse of mumps.

Dr. B. N. Parris, wife and child arrived last Thursday. They have rented one of Mr. Lyon's houses. The doctor is getting a very good practice.

Mr. George W. Allen, who went to Washington, D. C., with the expectation of his wife hearing a big lot of money, came home last Thursday, very much disappointed, as the legacy failed to materialize. "All that glitters is not gold," at least we suspect Mr. Allen thinks so.

I see Judge J. S. Glenn has announced for Circuit Judge from the Sixth Judicial District. Judge Glenn is too well known in Ohio county to lose much time in shaking hands with the voters of this county. They know that he is thoroughly qualified for the position he seeks, and being an Ohio county man, should and doubtless will receive the hearty support of his party in this county. If the Democrats will elect such men as Woodrow Wilson for President, A. O. Stanley for Governor and Judge Glenn for Circuit Court Judge, we would soon have fair elections.

There was a good crowd out to hear Rev. Vanhoy preach last night. Mrs. Paradine Canan got the banner at Sunday School here last Sunday, she having the largest number in school that day in her class.

Mr. J. A. Daniel and family, of Hartford, visited Mr. Daniel's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Daniel, Olaton, from Saturday until Monday.

Mr. Robert Arms sold a span of mules to Mr. Leslie Godsey last week for $275.

Mr. Clarence Russell, who has been in bad health for some time, was taken from the hospital at Owensboro, Ky., to the residence of his sister at Rosine, Ky. His sister went to Owensboro and brought him home with her. He was getting along very well when last heard from.

Boy Burned To Death.

Winchester, Ky., Feb. 13.—Clay Coleman, a 5-year-old negro boy, was burned to death this morning when his clothing took fire from an open grate. The boy, in his agony, attempted to jump in a well, but fell exhausted before he could climb in. His body was burned to a crisp.

What has become of the old-fashioned training school for boys that used to be located in the woodshed?

LONE NEGRO FAMILY IS WARNED TO EVACUATE

ChristianCounty "Coon Hunters" Threaten To Blow Up the Residence.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Feb. 11.—The only negro family in Kirkmansville, this county, headed by Rene Johnson, received warning yesterday, through the mail, to leave the vicinity. Two weeks ago an attempt was made to dynamite the Johnson house. The warning note reads as follows:

"To Rene Johnson and company: Take warning. You need not expect a second notice. The next one will blow you to hell. Don't take this for a prank. You must leave town with all your company in ten days. We positively don't intend to allow no negroes in this place nor loaf around here. Look out, we are coming forty-eight strong."

"COON HUNTERS."
The woman says she will move away as soon as the roads, now almost impassable, will permit.

White Miners Warned.
St. Charles, Ky., Feb. 11.—Notices have been found posted at Carbondale warning all white men to quit work and leave there. It is not known whether or not they will take the warning seriously. Some time ago a band of armed men visited this camp at night and forced all of the negro employees and their families to leave there. The mines were then run with a white force only, for some time until the operation of the mines was suspended. Several days ago operation was resumed with a full force of negroes and a few white men of the old force. The mines are patrolled by a full force of guards.

BARRETT'S FERRY.

Feb. 15.—Miss Mollie Bratcher, who has been visiting for some time at Millwood, returned home last Tuesday.

Mr. Lucian Bratcher, of Grayson county, is visiting relatives in this vicinity.

Mr. Jake Smith spent from Tuesday until Thursday in Owensboro. He went to sell his tobacco.

Mr. Willie Smith went to Owensboro this morning.

Miss Fannie Blacklock, of Hartford, is visiting friends and relatives here.

Mr. Clarence Foreman visited his father, Rev. W. H. Foreman, of Hartford, last week.

Mr. Willie Fentress, depot agent at Rosine, spent a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Fentress, last week.

Mr. Charles Hase and family, of Shreve, are visiting Mrs. Hase's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Harrison.

Mr. Isaac Christian and family, of Friedland, are visiting Mrs. Christian's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Daniel.

LITTLE GIRL KEPT WHEN PRIZE PIG BECAME PORK

Dalton, Ga., Feb. 13.—Little Miss Myrtle Bryant, of Cohutta, Ga., 11 years old, was a very happy little girl last fall when she won the first prize over all comers for the pig she had raised. But to-day she is a very sad little girl, for her dear little prize piggy, alas, is piggy no more, but pork.

Piggy was butchered last week, and on the day he died little Myrtle shed many bitter tears and could not find it in her heart to stay at home, but spent the day with one of the neighbors to avoid her piggy's distressing squeals.

"I raised him from a tiny little piggy," she says, "and I fed him and took care of him myself. Daddy says I even slept with him, but, 'course, I didn't do that."

The prize pig was exhibited at various fairs, and a picture of it was exhibited at the corn show in Atlanta last fall, which little Myrtle attended. The fame of this little girl has gone abroad in the land, and she has been flooded with letters of congratulation and inquiry from nearly every State in the Union.

Aluminum For Horseshoes.
Aluminum as material for horseshoes has been given a thorough test in the Russian Cavalry service. It is said that the new material has proved superior in lasting qualities to either steel or iron. The fact that it is much lighter than the metals previously used also gives it a distinct advantage. The higher cost of the lighter metal, however, probably will prevent it from being generally used.—[Chicago Journal.]

MARY DOESN'T CARE FOR SUBMARINES OR MINES

New York, Feb. 13.—Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Sr., left to-day on the liner Adriatic with $1,500,000 to found a new American hospital and provide for the wounded soldiers of the allied armies near the base of operations.

Mary Garden, who overlooked a $50,000 contract in operation this year to act as a Red Cross nurse, sailed to resume her duties in the Paris Hospital.

"I was born in Scotland," she said, "and am still a British subject. I don't give a d— whether a German submarine attacks this ship and murders the passengers or not. If they want to do it, let them go ahead. The murder of women, children and noncombatants may please them. I would return to Paris if the entire Atlantic Ocean were strewn with mines."

Captain B. F. Hayes, master of the liner, declared he had no intention of substituting the Stars and Stripes for the British flag.

EASTVIEW.

Feb. 15.—Eld. A. B. Gardner tendered his resignation at Bell's Run church Saturday.

Mrs. Rebecca Graves is dangerously ill of old age and a complication of diseases.

Mr. Otis Clark, of Pleasant Ridge, spent Saturday night with Mr. W. H. Mayfield.

Mr. B. J. French transacted business at Hartford Saturday.

Miss Della French, of Noereek, spent Saturday and Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis French.

Mr. Albert Taylor, of Taffy, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Martin Sunday.

Mr. Ben Taylor will go to Owensboro to-day to have an operation performed on his head.

Mr. Noel Morris is on the sick list.

Truly Shocking.

The Glasgow correspondent of a Louisville paper says that many pelts have been shipped from Glasgow to the Eastern market and says they include the skins of "minx."

A minx is a saucy girl, according to our dictionary. We are profoundly distressed to learn that hard times in the vicinity of Glasgow have caused a business in "minx" skins to spring up. Our moderate familiarity with the locality—and passing inspection of the minxes—inclines us to view the extermination of the species with the greatest regret.—[State Journal.]

Colds Are Often Most Serious—Stop Possible Complications.

The disregard of a cold has often brought many a regret. The fact of sneezing, coughing, or a fever should be warning enough that your system needs immediate attention. How Is This For Low?

Another record was broken at the Bourbon House Tuesday. One basket of tobacco brought 18 cents. We do not mean that the tobacco brought 18 cents per pound, but the whole basket of tobacco brought 18 cents. There were thirty pounds in the basket, and Taylor brought it for six-tenths of a cent per pound.—[Paris Democrat.]

Miss Ella Crowe, who is attending school at Owensboro, spent from Friday until Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Crowe.

Mrs. J. T. Newcomb is visiting in Owensboro, the guest of her brother, Mr. W. R. Crowe.

Willard, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Crowe, who has been very sick of bronchial trouble and measles, is improving.

Miss Myrtle Hudson, of Maxwell, is visiting her sister, Mrs. E. C. Crowe.

CHANCE TO MAKE KENTUCKY GREATEST HOG RAISING STATE

10,000 Hogs Fattened From Slops and Distillers' Dried Grains In Daviess County Alone Last Year

(By Stephen Bolles, in Bourbon Stock Journal).

Kentucky can easily be made the greatest hog-raising State in the Union. That has been demonstrated by Daviess county farmers. Last year about 10,000 hogs were fattened in that county on distillers' slops and dried grains.

So successful were the experiments that the L. H. & St. L. railroad provided switches along their lines for the use of farmers to utilize this by-product of the distilleries for feeding Officially Tested Out.

The official tests of this feed have been very satisfactory in every way. It has the stamp of approval of the best chemists in the agricultural world. Men from experiment stations who know all about food values of different grains and foods have given it the highest recommendation.

The richest agricultural States in the Union are those which lead in hog production. Iowa, with its vast field of corn; Illinois, Missouri and Indiana in the order named, have thousands hogs. Special tank cars were also provided for the transportation of both the slops and dried grains.

Makes Prize Winners.

At a great barbecue on the Owensboro Fair Grounds last May, attended by 20,000 farmers and feeders, there were on exhibition scores of fine hogs fattened on distillers' dried grains and slops, and many cash prizes were awarded. Officials from the agricultural department of the State and Federal Government were present and made addresses on the proper care and feeding of hogs and the prevention of cholera. Specimens of distillers' dried grains and slops from various distilleries were also on exhibition and their respective food value were explained by experts.

Fattens Quickly.

One of the greatest advantages in feeding distillers' dried grain is the fact that nothing is lost. The distillers remove only the non-fattening portions of the grain, leaving an average of 40 per cent of protein, which is the element required to fatten stock. It has been supposed by many people that the best way to fatten a hog is to feed hard corn. But corn in the natural state yields about 13 per cent of protein, as much of it passes through the animal undigested. Distillers' dried grains therefore possess about three times the fattening properties of natural corn. By feeding these dried grains with alfalfa, clover or other green stuffs, hogs fatten quicker and better than by the use of corn alone and at very much less cost.

of rich farmers who made their money out of hogs. They feed the raw grain to the porker and sell him at the highest price in the biggest markets of the country. They have no such advantages as the Kentucky farmer has. At our very doors, and at a much lower cost than corn the Iowa and Indiana farmer feeds, we have the feed that will produce the best pork in the world.

The Farmer's Opportunity.

The greatest single industry in Kentucky is its distilleries. This industry pays more taxes for the maintenance of the State than all other manufacturing industries combined. Thousands of tons of slops containing nutritious, fat-producing elements are dumped into the waste heap simply because Kentucky feeders have not waked up to their opportunity. A comparatively small portion of this by-product, is dried and shipped to Europe to be used as dairy feed and for fattening hogs.

But why ship any of these dried grains to Denmark and Holland when we can use them here at home up to the full capacity of every distillery in the State, thereby increasing the profits of hog-raising and adding many millions of dollars annually to the wealth of the farmers of the state.

Cheaper Feed Than Corn.

Farmers should sell the corn they raise at the high price it usually brings, and buy, for less money, more and better feed in the form of distillers' dried grains. By doing this they can fatten more hogs at less cost and sell them in the market for larger profits. It is a simple business proposition that should not be overlooked by the farmer.
